

THE FRENCH CABINET VAIN ATTEMPT OF THE RADICALS TO OUST THE MINISTRY.

The Government sustained by a majority of 99.—The Attack Made on the Ground That Teachers Are Prohibited from Holding Congresses.—The Chamber of Deputies today made an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the Government. The radicals have for a long time been scheming to oust the Meline Cabinet for no very obvious reason beyond a desire to secure the official leaves and fishes for themselves.

On Tuesday last, the Chamber decided by a majority of nineteen to discuss on Monday next the mode of electing Senators. The Government opposed the proposal, but a snap division resulted in its adoption. The Government did not take the action of the Chamber as an expression of want of confidence, and no serious result followed its defeat.

This move on the part of the Chamber was an incident in the manoeuvres of the radicals to force M. Meline and his colleagues out of office, and it anticipated an interpellation offered today by M. Lavi-Mirman, the Radical Socialist who sits on one of the districts of Rheims.

The Republique Française, M. Meline's organ, published an article yesterday strongly attacking the opponents of the Cabinet. It charged them with darkly conspiring against the Cabinet and with laying snares every day to entrap the Government. It charged them to openly attack the policy of the Government and to make charges against it from the tribune of the Chamber.

The article, which was a vigorous one, hurled defiance at the radicals, and concluded by calling upon them to collect their courage and to support the Government. The other groups showed a disposition to support it, but were not wholly unanimous.

The galleries were filled with an interested audience, and the debate was closely followed. Every member of the Chamber was present. The members were fully occupied, and it was evident that the Opposition entertained high hopes of forcing M. Meline and his fellow Ministers to visit the Palace of the Elysée to hand their resignations to President Faure, hopes that were doomed to disappointment when a vote was taken on the interpellation as the Chamber gave a majority of 99 to the Government.

M. Mirman's chief point of attack was the clerical Congresses, which he said were a direct attack on the Republic. He said that the Government had introduced a measure in the Chamber authorizing teachers to hold such Congresses, and to hold them in the schools. This statement was met with a loud cry of "No!"

M. Derlan, Minister of Justice, followed M. Mirman. He asserted that only one of the Congresses held in the schools had been reported, and that the Government could not be held responsible for the actions of the teachers. He said that the Government had no intention of authorizing such Congresses, and that it was only the teachers who were responsible for the actions of the Congresses.

M. Derlan's speech was met with a loud cry of "No!" The Chamber then passed a vote of confidence in the Government. The vote was 99 to 1.

The Centre—The ex-Prime Minister, protestant against the closing of the debate, and he was supported by the radicals. The Chamber then passed a vote of confidence in the Government. The vote was 99 to 1.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S SPEECH.

"He Who Insults Your King Insults Your Country as Well as Your Chief."

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The Emperor performed the ceremony of receiving the troops in the Lustgarten at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of the Empress, Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, who wore the uniform of the Hussar Regiment; the Siamese Field Marshal, and the Imperial princes, who occupied the balcony of the palace facing the field altar, before which the ceremony took place. The weather was fine and the scene brilliant.

After the administration of the oath the Emperor, who was on horseback, addressed the recruits, saying: "You have now sworn an allegiance implying obedience and fidelity to the German Empire. This applies to me, your chief and your war, and is sacred, as it is sworn to God upon the cross. My house is a Christian house, and is nothing without Christ our Lord. Thus a soldier is nothing without faith. With a firm belief in Christ you have a special reason for being long as you are the King's coat remember that he who insults the King insults your uniform as well as your chief. Therefore I trust that you will energetically defend the King and Crown, especially in these times, when disobedience and discontent are rampant and disloyalty is rife."

After the Emperor's speech, the recruits were dismissed. The Emperor then returned to the palace. The ceremony was a success, and the Emperor's speech was well received.

CHOKED AND ROBBED HER

MRS. BARNETT FOUND UNCONSCIOUS BY HER HUSBAND.

Her Diamond Earrings Missing—Two Men Arrested Who Called on Her While He Was at the Theatre—Who Named One Wolf?—The Police Have Now in Custody Two Young Men Who are Known to Have Called on Mrs. Barnett during the evening. Barnett says that when he found his wife she was almost dead. Barnett, the grand old man of the theatre, and it is certain that her husband knew of them, for it was on information furnished by him that they were arrested. So far the principal evidence against either of the prisoners is the ravaging of the delicious woman, in which the reported robber, named Wolf, is named. Barnett, who is a well-known actor, and a few moments of consciousness, she said statements which would appear to exonerate the two men now in custody. The result is that Acting Captain Herlihy of the East Fifth street station and his detectives are mixed up.

Barnett's story to the police was that he had invited his wife and his stepson to go to the theatre with him on Monday night. His wife didn't care to go, he said, giving as an excuse that she expected some visitors during the evening, so he left her at home and took his sister. When he returned he found his wife unconscious, and he called a messenger for Dr. Wolf of 133 Henry street. He went to the station house and notified the police. Dr. Wolf found Mrs. Barnett as her husband had left her, almost dead, her head buried in the bedclothes, and her feet on a chair. Her face was badly scratched and the finger marks of the two men were visible on her neck.

When the police arrived they were unable to find any clue to the stranger. As they were going away Barnett remembered what his wife had said about expecting callers, and told them of it. Inquiries were immediately made among the friends of the family, and a woman named Wolf was found. She said that she had seen two men enter Mrs. Barnett's flat shortly after her husband had gone away, and shortly after 10 o'clock. Mrs. Schaeffer, the janitress of the house, saw one man leave the house at 11 o'clock, and the other, who was named Wolf, she said, she saw him leave the house at 11 o'clock.

Barnett had convulsions while the police were finding this much out. During one of his husband's seizures, he said: "Don't hurt me, Schultz, you know I love you!"

He named the name Schultz repeatedly, and the police arrested Max Schultz, 16 years old, of 232 East Twenty-third street. Schultz didn't deny that he had called on Mrs. Barnett during the evening, but said that he had not seen her. He said that he had seen her in the morning, and that he had seen her in the afternoon. He said that he had seen her in the evening, and that he had seen her in the morning.

PROPOSED TARIFF LEGISLATION. Uncertainty as to the Attitude of the President Toward the Dingley Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Speculation as to the probability of the enactment of tariff legislation at the coming session of Congress is complicated somewhat by uncertainty as to the attitude of the Cleveland administration.

The general opinion among the most shrewd and cool-headed of the Administration officials and the few Congressmen who have been in Washington since the election that it would be the part of wisdom for the Republican party to avoid an extra session of the Congress.

SUICIDE AT HIGH BRIDGE.

A WELL-DRESSED MAN FOUND DEAD IN A BOAT.

A Young Married Woman's Second Attempt at Suicide Successful—An Invalid Upholsterer Hanged Himself—Then Continued a Burden on His Family.

The body of a suicide, whose name is supposed to have been Edward Schaeffer, was found yesterday afternoon in a boat near the river at High Bridge, on a line with 173rd street. The dead man, who was about 20 years old, was well dressed and refined looking. His hands were white and showed no signs of manual labor.

He had shot himself in the head while standing and fell forward on his face. His clothing consisted of a light overcoat, a dark velvet suit, tan shoes, white shirt with a standing collar, and red necktie.

Beside the body lay a stick umbrella with a wooden handle. In his pockets were $2.30, a bunch of keys, a penknife, and papers, which were sent to the Morgue with the body. The body appeared to have lain where it was found a day or two, but a negro who viewed it thinks he saw the man walking about High Bridge Park during the morning.

Among the suicide's papers were printed cards bearing the name "Mr. Edward Schaeffer," and the card of Dr. Charles Schram of 1074 Madison avenue. There were also two letters. One headed "Office of the Publishers," weekly, 50 Duane street, Oct. 27, and beginning "My dear Ed," referred to the body as "bowl" and was signed "Ed. Kelly."

The other spoke of a present, a knife, given by the writer, Henry Weiss. It began "My dear Ed," and was signed "Ed. Kelly." The body was found in a boat near the river at High Bridge, on a line with 173rd street.

Mrs. Yett Stern, a young wife whose mind had been affected for some months past by illness, shot herself yesterday morning. She lived at 114th street, between Lexington and 115th streets, and her three-year-old son, Mr. Stern, was traveling abroad for an optical instrument business.

Two months ago Mrs. Stern tried to poison herself with arsenic. She was found by her husband before she had taken enough to prove fatal. Since then she watched her carefully, but she was not able to prevent her from taking arsenic. She was found by her husband before she had taken enough to prove fatal.
